Slight decrease in capital due to Q2 loss, partly offset by lower capital deductions and actuarial gains

Improved MDA – decrease of ~20bp due to AT1 issuance in Q2

Objectives and expectations for 2021

Given the strong H1 results, revenues should slightly exceed previous year

With further progressing transformation we target operational costs of around €6.5bn – additional €200m one-time write-off

While uncertainty of the further development of the pandemic remains, based on current observations a risk result < €1bn is expected

We expect a positive operating result

Based on H1 result a CET1 ratio ~13% is likely

2021 with measurable results from transformation

Note: Expectations are based on the assumption that there is no fundamental change affecting the CHF loan portfolio at mBank

German economy 2021 – Recovery has started

DAX

(avg. p.a.)

(avg. p.a. | %)

GDP

(change vs. previous year | %)

Current development

Following the easing of many Corona restrictions, a strong economic recovery has begun in Germany. In Q2 real GDP increased 1.5% compared to Q1, and we expect an even higher growth rate for Q3.

Economic activity is increasing especially in the service sectors, where business was previously very limited or not possible at all due to Corona restrictions. In contrast, despite strong demand, production in the manufacturing sector has actually fallen since the beginning of the year. This is not due to the infections that have risen in the meantime, but to increasing supply bottlenecks for intermediate products, which will probably not be resolved for some time.

The situation on the labor market has improved until recently, with many companies hiring more workers again. However, despite a decline in recent months, the number of unemployed is still a good 300 thousand higher than before the crisis. In addition, about 1.5 million people are probably still on short-time work.

Our expectation for 2021

The upswing triggered by the easing of the Corona restrictions is likely to continue over the rest of the year and into the coming year:

- The situation in the sectors particularly affected by the restrictions should increasingly normalize. The main impetus will come from stronger demand from private households, which have saved considerably more since the beginning of the pandemic than in normal times - probably mostly involuntarily.
- Monetary and fiscal policy remain expansionary for the time being and should give the economy an additional boost.

Consequently, the German economy is likely to grow by 3.3%. Next year the growth rate will probably be even higher.

An important risk factor for this forecast remains the further course of the pandemic. Infection figures have increased already, and by autumn at the latest, they might reach alarming levels again. Even without another comprehensive lockdown, this would weigh on the economy at least temporarily.

In addition, demand from China could weaken in view of a tighter monetary policy and thus slow down manufacturing activity worldwide.

Retail industry

Share of 1.4% of overall portfolio

by sub-portfolios (€bn)

by region

by maturity

- Overall stable sector due to high proportion of food retailing and drugstores (food retailing with 10-15% non food revenues). Top 10 borrower units represent 59% of sector EaD
- Retail industry: fierce predatory competition in all segments by price and investments in shop modernisation. Online is gaining market share at the expense of the stationary retailers
- In crisis: food retailing winner due to stay-at-home effect and lockdown of competitors in non food. Fashion: most severely affected. The failure of the Christmas, winter and Easter business hits this sub-segment hard. Home improvement/DIY/Consumer electronics/Sports benefit from “cocooning impact”, shift in consumer preferences and working from home
- Promising restart in all segments after German lockdown
- Liquidity exceeds most forecasts
- Our consistent strategy of customer selection and support of sustainable business models over the past years pays off during the current crisis

Travel related industries

Share of only 0.9% of overall portfolio

by sub-portfolios (€bn)

by region

by maturity

- Airlines: Portfolio consists of €1.8bn secured aircraft financing and €0.4bn corporate exposure. Corona has hit the airline industry in an unprecedented extent. The crisis has a sustainable impact, but the general global trend for travel and mobility should be intact once the situation has improved. Full recovery is uncertain, but currently expected to take until 2024
- Cruise liners (€0.9bn): Financing mostly ECA covered. ECA have provided loan deferral options to protect liquidity. Currently we see softly starting business. Achievement of pre-Corona level will take time. A possible new lockdown in autumn has the potential to badly damage this sector
- Hotels: Currently we see re-opening of hotels. Achievement of pre-Corona level is furthermore uncertain. Especially a possible new lockdown in autumn has the potential to badly damage this sector
- Tour operators (€0.4bn): Mix of state support and use of KfW programs. Currently we see softly starting business. Achievement of pre-Corona level will take time. A possible new lockdown in autumn has the potential to badly damage this sector

Automotive & mechanical engineering

Share of 4.0% of overall portfolio

by sub-portfolios (€bn)

by region

by maturity

- Automotive: Dominating sub-sectors in portfolio are car parts suppliers (56% EAD) and OEM (37% EAD). Major share of complete automotive EaD rated investment grade (>85%)
- Market environment recovered from Q3/2020 onwards. However, shortage of semiconductors and other materials (e.g. plastics) are having a negative impact on the overall sector and threaten recovery
- Transformation risk, risk of (forced) production shutdown due to Corona and other external effects remain. Recovery of demand to pre-crisis level not expected before 2023
- Mechanical engineering: Overall stable sector due to highly diversified portfolio with different impact of Corona induced crisis on portfolio subgroups. Biggest subgroup machine tools representing less than 10% of all client groups and top 10 clients approx. 20% of EaD
- Difficult market even before Corona in subsectors with high exposure to automotive sector but for sector as a whole no severe impact expected due to well-filled order books, improving order income in recent months and sufficient liquidity
- Market environment recovered from Q4/2020 onwards. However, shortage of raw materials are having a negative impact on the overall sector and threaten recovery

- Vintages of recent years developed more favorably so far and NPEs remain at a low level
- Due to risk-oriented selection very low RD
- As a consequence of low interest rates, repayment rates remain on a very high level
- Average “Beleihungsauslauf” (BLA) in new business of 81% in Q2 2021. German BLA is more conservative than the internationally used LtV definition due to the application of the strict German Pfandbrief law

Risk parameters unchanged, impact of pandemic so far negligible

IAS 19: Development of pension obligations

Cumulated actuarial gains and losses (€m)

- Pension obligations (gross)
- Cumulated OCI effect¹
- Discount rate in %²

Explanation

Discount rate increased significantly versus start of the year (partly due to rising market yields, partly due to model change for discount rate), producing a YtD valuation gain in pension obligations. On the asset side, the LDI hedges experienced under proportional losses due to rising market yields. In total positive net effect (after tax) of +€682m in YtD OCI

The discount rate is derived from an AA rated government bond basket, re-calibrated on corporate bond level, with average duration of 18 years

Funding ratio (plan assets vs. pension obligations) is around 100% across all Group plans

1) OCI effect driven by development of plan assets versus pension obligations, after tax, without minorities; cumulated since 1.1.2013 (new IAS19 standard)
 2) Discount rate for pension plans in Germany (represent 87% of total pension obligations); model change for discount rate in Q1 2021

FX impact on CET1 ratio

QoQ Change in FX capital position

Explanation

Net positive impact on CET1 ratio¹ due to increasing currency translation reserve which overcompensates the nearly unchanged FX driven credit risk RWA

- Hardly any change in credit risk RWA from FX effects, mainly due to opposing effects of stronger PLN and weaker USD and GBP
- Higher currency translation reserve due to stronger PLN, partly offset by USD and GBP (PLN +€71m, USD -€28m, GBP -€3m)

Disclaimer

This presentation contains forward-looking statements. Forward-looking statements are statements that are not historical facts; they include, inter alia, statements about Commerzbank's beliefs and expectations and the assumptions underlying them. These statements are based on plans, estimates, projections and targets as they are currently available to the management of Commerzbank. Forward-looking statements therefore speak only as of the date they are made, and Commerzbank undertakes no obligation to update any of them in light of new information or future events. By their very nature, forward-looking statements involve risks and uncertainties. A number of important factors could therefore cause actual results to differ materially from those contained in any forward-looking statement. Such factors include, among others, the conditions in the financial markets in Germany, in Europe, in the United States and elsewhere from which Commerzbank derives a substantial portion of its revenues and in which it holds a substantial portion of its assets, the development of asset prices and market volatility, potential defaults of borrowers or trading counterparties, the implementation of its strategic initiatives and the reliability of its risk management policies.

In addition, this presentation contains financial and other information which has been derived from publicly available information disclosed by persons other than Commerzbank ("external data"). In particular, external data has been derived from industry and customer-related data and other calculations taken or derived from industry reports published by third parties, market research reports and commercial publications. Commercial publications generally state that the information they contain has originated from sources assumed to be reliable, but that the accuracy and completeness of such information is not guaranteed and that the calculations contained therein are based on a series of assumptions. The external data has not been independently verified by Commerzbank. Therefore, Commerzbank cannot assume any responsibility for the accuracy of the external data taken or derived from public sources.
